STATE NEWS

An Ironclad.

Mrs. O'Connell, living in Lewiston, dropped a door on her foot, Saturday, crushing two toes so badly that the surgeon was obliged to amputate them.

The Lady and Little Blight-shoot building in Auburn, is now entirely complete, and a very handsome building it is. The brick have been oiled and the scaffolding removed.

On Sunday morning there was a debt of $900 on the church organ of the First Street Universalist Church, Lewiston, the debt having been shrunk from $1,800 one year ago to that amount by the efforts of the Ladies' Aid Society of that church which prides itself truly on being one of the most enterprising ladies' organizations in the two cities. At the close of Sunday morning services, Rev. Mr. Hayden made a quiet proposal to his people. He said, "Let's raise one half of this $900." He did. He did. $450 in subscriptions and then flew thick and fast, and before half a canvass of the house had been made, one half of the $900 had been raised. Everybody immediately spoke out in meeting. The universal cry was "keep on." Subscriptions were doubled and in less than twenty minutes all of the $900 had been pledged—to be paid in 60 days. It is proposed to send the news by Mr. Hunscom 6x cable to London when it will create no surprise.

Aroostook.

The funeral of Mr. Harvey L. Goodhue, of Caribou, was held in the Union church, the 10th inst., under the charge of the Odd Fellows, assisted by the Masons and members of the G. A. R. Post. The church was not large enough to hold all the people who came to attend the services. The sermon was preached by Rev. G. M. Park of Presque Isle. The services were very impressive. Mr. Goodhue leaves a widow and six children to mourn his loss.

Cumberland.

Sixteen vessels have arrived at Portland with 92,500 pounds of cod and haddock.

A gift of $1,000 has been made to the Church of the Unity, of Brunswick, through Professor C. C. Everett, of Harvard College, says the Herald.

Sunday afternoon at Cape Elizabeth tried to frighten a party of girls with a gun. He succeeded in shooting off the gun and his thumb, too.

Sunday night some thief entered the Globe Billiard hall in Portland, with false keys, and stole three sets of billiard balls, one composition set of pool balls, and about fifty cigars, in all of the value of $100.

Kennebec.

Mr. Harry A. Chadwick of Gardiner has taken a position in the editorial department of the Kennebec Journal.

Mr. F. C. Allen, of Augusta, will shortly publish an edition of the new version of the Holy Bible. It will be the first published in America.

Mr. Warren Wight, baggage master on the Gardiner and Augusta accommodation train, has held that position ever since the Kennebec was first placed on the road, a period of twenty-one years.

William Lewis and wife, of Oakland, celebrated their golden wedding at their home, Thursday. About forty relatives and friends assembled, bringing many appropriate presents.

The Knickerbockers announced carrying ice at their houses at Farmingdale and Hallowell Monday morning. Extensive preparations are being made, and the ice business will soon be in full blast up and down the river. The opening of the ice shipping season on the Kennebec, proves a boon to a large number of men along the river, who have been unemployed since the lumbering ended. It is estimated that about one-third as many men are required in loading and storing a crew for loading a cargo consists of 15 men. Wages are $1.50 per day.

The construction of the new telephone line between Augusta and Belfast will be commenced as soon as the frost leaves the ground, says the Journal. It will be built by the company, and one of its agents is now in Farmington contracting for the poles. Copper wire will be used. This will open up and Augusta will then be in direct telephone communication with nearly all the leading cities of the State, and being centrally located, conversation can be readily carried on between the different places.

Knox.

Messrs. M. A. Achorn and A. F. Ames, of Rockland, claim the ownership of Widow's Island, Fox Island Thoroughfare, which the United States government contemplates using for hospital purposes, says the Free Press. They purchased the island at auction, but the Treasury Department refuses to confirm the sale.

Lincoln.

John Brown, of Abogadusett Point, was prostrated by a paralytic shock and died, April 12th, aged eighty-five years and seven months, at the residence of his son, J. Loyalist Brown. He was one of Bowdoinham's oldest citizens and a man universally appreciated.

Oxford.

The ice has carried away several piers and booms at Canton and done much damage.

There is a lady in Andover, who has taken no solid food for seven years. She lives on milk, coffee, and a little tea.

Sagadahoc.

Monday noon, as Jerry McLaughlin, of Bath, was attempting to cross over the freight train which was making up to the depot, his foot was badly jammed, splitting the toe from the foot. He had just placed his foot upon the shackle when the train started back and his foot was jammed between the draw bars.

Somerset.

The Bath Independent says: "The race for polo seems to have victimized a Fairfield farmer, who was so foolish the first of this week as to sell his horse for $65, which sum he bet and lost upon the Kimmedas."

Mr. W. T. Watson, who, during the last winter, was one of the editors of the Kennebec Journal, and assisted in reporting the legislature for the Associated Press, has accepted a position upon the Fairfield Journal.

Washington.

On Saturday, a daughter of Gilbert Cummings, of North Lubec, while playing with a bonfire, was burned to death. Age, eleven years.

York.

About ten acres of grass land in Biddeford Heights, owned by Hill and Clifford, were burned over, and an orchard was greatly injured. The flames at one time approached dangerously near buildings in the vicinity, and the steam fire engine Ebenezer Simpson was employed and extinguished the fire.

The business in the building line in Kennebunk, is now very brisk, and there is a prospect for more than usual activity in the spring. Cutting Lord's new residence on Summer street will be finished by the middle of May. The total cost of the place will not be less than $100,000. There is nothing else in York county that can compare with this elegant residence. J. H. Olin also has a fine house on Storer street which is nearly finished.

The Fashions

[New York Evening Post.]

Butterflies are very much used for ball and other evening dresses. They are placed on the shoulders, upon the breast, knot of flowers, and also upon the bonnet. A group of five butterflies in the hair is also a passing fancy, and a whole flight of them is seen on the painted gauze fans that are now so fashionable.

Some of the new mantles are chiefly original as regards the sleeves, a tendency now all the way from shapeless to observable. Some are empty with the old pagoda sleeves, hanging loose from the arm, and displaying the bright-colored linings. A number of new French tea gowns are shown with these sleeves which have a certain grace, but are by no means utilitarian, but neither is it in direct to exertion of any kind.

One of Redfern's novelties in dress trimmings consists of narrow braid formed of lines crossing and re-crossing each other so as to form a design clearly marked by the open spaces that intervene. This is laid as a plastron down the front of the dress, and is a very novel and pretty effect when the colors are well-chosen, as in the instance of pale-gray vicuna cloth and navy blue braid—a happy combination. Silk collar and deep cuffs are also trimmed with this braid, wrought in a similar design adapted to the purpose.

Lincoln is a wonderful fabric of foreign weave showing basket patterns in large and small designs. Lincoline is a silken material, is an American production of fine light texture, with a dresses-woven surface. It is shown in all seasonable colors and pretty designs.

Among the popular goods in all black is the fabric known as ring cloth, a material which is as transparent as gauze, but as strong as crape cloth. It is soft and clinging that it is said the entire width of the goods can be drawn through an ordinary finger ring, hence its name.

There are fewer expensive fabrics in market this season than have appeared for many years. Novelties crowd the shop windows, and counters which prove far too tempting, both in price and quality, to be passed by without a purchase, and the more expensive goods are accordingly left unsold. The passing wonder to many experienced shoppers this year is, how such really handsome and reliable materials can be sold at their present low rates with any profit to either manufacturer or merchant. However, this matter is not one for their solving. They have only to be thankful that this season the dress money allowance can be made to go so far, and that such uncommonly attractive effects can be produced with so little outlay of money. No lady need be a dowdy or look anything but well dressed and stylish minded of society in these times, for outdoor still go nearly as far as two did in former days.

Stripes for very fashionably worn as underskirts with tunics and bodices or polonaises of plain material, with the stripes goods introduced on the bodice as a plastron, waistcoat, or collar and revers. With such dresses double tunics are sometimes employed, generally of the shawl point form, one of the stripe and the other the plain material.

For ceremonious toilette an immense amount of jet embroidery pendants and other trimmings of the kind will be worn on black materials of black profusely garnished with the inseparable tassels, fringe, and sprays of flowers in jet head work dropped over skirts of silk or satin, will be among the most elegant and rich of the toilets of the season. Black lace dresses will also be made more dressy by pearl or steel clasps, buckles and other ornaments of glittering cut jet scattered over the dress, and adding much to its rich effect.

Scotch ginghams are in special request, and among the best grades are shown handsome-looking embroidered ginghams matching the solid colors heretofore in stock. These come in boxes, and are warranted fast colors and exceedingly durable. Those with the new chambrays and percales are special favorites for ladies who prefer neat and dressy washable goods for morning wear during the summer.

Elegant simplicity will be one of the primary requirements of visiting and dinner costumes even of the richest description this summer. Less adorning will be seen, and more care and thought will be devoted to the perfect fit and artistic draping of the toilette. A very rich and elegant model from Redfern is a dinner dress of golden brown Lyons satin, the back portion of the skirt arranged in three full arrangements, the front in three full arrangements, the front in three full arrangements, the front

THURSDAY, APRIL 23, 1885.

General Grant's sixty third birthday occurs next Monday.

Chief-Justice Waite, of the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia, is in failing health and is said to contemplate speedy retirement. He is seventy three years old.

The New York Evening Post commends the Administration for the consolidation of the Massachusetts internal revenue districts, and now we would like its opinion of the new collector.

The President seems to be giving those papers that have set themselves up as apologists for the Administration more work than they can keep well in hand. Pillsbury, Chase and Troup in one day is spreading pretty thick.

Even the Washington correspondent of the Boston Herald seems to be ashamed of Pillsbury's appointment and tries to make it appear that the President was rather persuaded than otherwise against it. It is about the first time that a President has ever had to be persuaded to make a decision in his selection of men for office.

Seven New York politicians are mentioned to succeed Senator Conkling in Congress. They are Senator Campbell of Irving Hall, ex-Senator Geo. H. Edmonds of Tammany Hall, ex-Alderman Fitzpatrick and Charles Pelham, County Clerk Clements, ex-Alderman Shiels of Tammany, and ex-Assemblyman John Brodsky.

Dr. Leyengoetter the Star Prince plays can coincides with Colonel Bradley's opinion that Sutton was the instigator of the Italian murder crime. All that Capone was drawn into it by him. Dr. Leyengoetter saw much of the two men. His idea is that Sutton's intellectual force was so much stronger than Capone's that he must have been a leader and not led although his superior bearing and better sense enlisted public sympathy generally in his side.

A Washington dispatch says: The statement published in the recent Professor Spencer F. Baird's Secretary of the Smithsonian institution and resigned to accept a similar professorship at Yale College was compliment to the Professor who said to a friend that there was not a word of truth in the statement. He did not resign nor has he intended to. He has not been offered the professorship at Yale, he says, nor would he accept it if it were offered to him. He would not even take the Presidency of the college.

A Jeffersonian Democrat who is not satisfied with some of the foreign appointments writes to the New York Herald to know if it is not about time for the Administration to call a halt and asks if President Cleveland is not endeavoring to destroy the party that nominated and elected him. To this he quotes the Herald editorial of last Friday, which says that Secretary Bayard is responsible for the objectionable appointments, and that the President was not aware of the character of the communications with any other people we feel to seek in this circumstance perhaps Mr. Cleveland is the first President elected to office that the members of his Cabinet select suitable candidates for positions of trust and honor, instead of his exclusive favor. This does not relieve the responsibility for the appointments upon him. No doubt Mr. Bayard writes his full share of blunders, but the President is to charge all the sins of his Administration to his Secretary of State husband.

The sum of $2,000 Henry was appointed to the principal work of the Government Printing Office, and the charges of frauds alleged to have been committed in the Government Printing Office, including the fire with the rush shipments of documents, have attracted the attention of Congress. Senator Morrill, of Maine, has introduced a resolution with the intention of calling the attention of the Senate to the subject, and it is probable that a committee will be appointed to investigate the matter. Senator Morrill would be a valuable member of such a committee, and if this body should investigate, it would be well for the public. There was no doubt that there would be some startling revelations in that direction, if the Senate should begin to inquire into the matter.

Representative Commissioner Rice says that the Republicans could carry Illinois by 40,000 on the issue of Gen. Logan's election to the Senate.

JOHN GOLDTHWAIT

Birds of a Feather.

It seems that Cap'n Chase was not the only member of the Garcelon gang to be remembered kindly by President Cleveland Tuesday. The later dispatches show that Eben F. Pillsbury, the "guide, philosopher and friend" of Garcelon throughout the Counting-Out villainy, has been appointed U. S. Internal Revenue Collector for the District of Massachusetts.

This affront has been put upon that loyal State deliberately by the President, as he has been fully advised of Pillsbury's record through the public prints, including papers friendly to him like the Boston Advertiser and Springfield Republican.

If the President will recall Fogg from the West and make him Postmaster of Lewiston, appoint Garcelon Collector of Customs at Portland, with Simon S. Brown as U. S. District Attorney and Councillor Foster as Collector of the Port of Bangor, the Reform leaders will be well taken care of, and the beauties of Democratic Administration will have a conspicuous illustration.

The Administration Blundering

[Boston Advertiser Cleveland Organ.]

The appointments of internal revenue collectors for Massachusetts and Maine made by the President yesterday are as bad as they could be, unless he had chosen men convicted of crime. Eben F. Pillsbury and Charles H. Chase are the two men who, more than any others, are responsible for the monstrous conspiracy of political fraud by which the condition of Democrats in Maine attempted to hold the State Government of Maine after the party had decisively lost at the polls. Pillsbury was among the most virulent and ugly of the anti war Democrats who were not inappropriately called copperheads, for whom every sneaking sneak who fought for the Union has an instinctive antipathy.

For the men who risked their lives on the field of battle to preserve the rebellious country and to fully vindicate its flag it is possible to have religious respect. It is never wrong and mistaken we may deem them, but for their Northern friends who spent their time in aiding the rebellion, opposing every necessary measure for the salvation of the nation, discouraging enlistments, assailing the administration of Lincoln there is only the sentiment which good men have for the false and unworthy. In Maine and in Massachusetts there are hundreds of brave Democrats who served the Union with patriotic ardor and in large numbers in the ranks of Lincoln's army in the crisis of the nation's life. How comes it that Secretary Manning and the President have selected the men who in every sense to reflect the honor on the Democratic party in two especially obnoxious to the loyal Union men of Republican New England?

Pillsbury seemed to be a determined malcontent to the efforts to suppress the rebellion, to the strictness and rigidness of which he attributed his election and by which he was compelled to shield himself from the wrath of his disappointed office seekers under and in defiance of which professed to be a Democrat in Congress and afterwards in Maine. Neither of these political careers has been such as would recommend to connection with any action which looked to better and more honest methods in politics. He is the reflex of the old spoils system and represents only disorganization and confusion of the Democratic State which both the President and Secretary could command the full vote of his party for any office. They have been careful in such ways that it would be extremely unwise to expose either of them to the chance of a popular election. Their selection for honors by the Democratic administration is a blunder of large proportions, significant of an associated weakness.

It is to be hoped that such selections are unwelcome to parts seeking recognition of the conservative Bourbon and reactionary faction which disappoints the progressive element. It is a matter for Democrats to consider. If they consider it. It is publicly regarding the matter in its effect on party standing will not impair their success. But the fact is that such appointments must be regarded as logically bad, if we watch the general sense of what is right. Inconsistent with sound political efficiency to form, and an organizer, a worker. Because unselfish humility also to the contrary little interested.

Money Saved.

The premiums paid for Life Insurance may be saved to the insured in many cases—not money spent in case of early death, but return in out of all proportion to the premium paid, and it is exceedingly likely that the insured will live much longer than the cash paid for premiums will exceed the face of the policy. This only for a life policy, is a comparatively small one and can easily be afforded by anyone having a moderate income.

Any one insured. If not look upon the picture of a family brought up in comfort whose husband, as I think, has died and left it exposed to the world with a wife and want, and then look upon the other picture where the husband and father has paid a small premium of 43 cents and left a policy for $5,000 or $10,000. Which is the happy picture, and which was the wise man? Any one of these can be insured in the Connecticut Mutual Life Ins. Co.

FROM CALAIS

Death of an Old Citizen

CALAIS, April 22. Samuel Kelley, one of the most respected citizens of this town, died after a short illness, at the age of seventy years. Mr. Kelley was a member of the Baptist church, and always liberal in its support, was a large real estate owner, and for many years one of the proprietors of the Calais Railroad, and for years one of its trustees. He leaves a wife by second marriage, three daughters and a large circle of friends to mourn his loss.

GENERAL GRANT

His Improvement Continues.

NEW YORK, April 22. Between 6 and 7 o'clock this morning Gen. Grant was served by his valet, who served to him. He then refreshed. Dr. Douglas treated the patient throat and at 8.30 o'clock left the house. The doctor stated that there was no change from the General's exercises yesterday, unless it was in added strength, he passed profound sleep during the greater part of the night. The normal condition of the throat is to-day but the tendency to loss of the tongue is at all times great, of greater or less pain. It is quite shocked that the General is well enough improved to-day, though he is still a sick man.

The doctor has not resumed his literary work, and will not, at least, until he should his improved condition continue and increase. At noon the patient walked out to drive in an open carriage.

The General Takes a Walk on the Street

Dr. Douglas, Shrady and Douglas came in attendance at two to-day. The doctors found was examined by aid of a reflector, and it was found compact and healthy, that which last seen by Drs. Douglas and Shrady on Sunday last. As to the patient, he was showing, he said, in response to inquiry that the General experienced no pain during the examination, and felt stronger than yesterday. His throat was much improved except at the inflamed part.

He felt stronger and entertained hopes that Grant was better at present than he took his last drive before the throat pain was developed. The next consultation will take place on Sunday next. Dr. Doug. he said, is of the opinion that Gen. Grant will be able to go out to walk this afternoon, or had not been gone out when Gen. Grant and Col. Fred. left the house and walked to Madison Ave. At the corner he stood a few minutes and gazed down the Avenue and then retraced his steps to the house.

Dr. Douglas will Issue no More Bulletins.

Dr. Douglas returned to stay at 1 o'clock and refused to make any statement of the condition and said he would issue no more bulletins, whether improved or not, in the morning. In the evening Mr. E. A. Stevens said he would do so or not, in the morning. He said the General seemed better, but the doctors disagree as to the progress of the disease.

FUNK'S DYNAMITE SCHEME.

Funk's Crazy or Crafty Story—Arranging to Blow up his Sweetheart.

NEW YORK, April 22. Otto Funk, who was suspected of complicity in the preparation of a mine to blow up the observatory at Princeton University was arrested last night. He confessed that he was engaged in preparing the means of blowing up his sweetheart, Miss Jennie Gibson, with dynamite as she approached the University. He said that she always took when going to her classes. Funk's revelations led to a further examination of the grounds. In the path leading to the university building were found two "death traps" carefully concealed beneath the surface and leading from it towards the observatory were about forty feet of trench covered and carefully cemented to prevent its giving out a hollow sound in the event of persons walking over it. Funk explained that the trench was to have been extended to the Observatory 240 feet distant, where the work already dug. The trench was to contain a wire running from the pit to the electrical machines in the "death traps." When all was prepared it was his plan to secrete himself in the pit, watch for the coming of his sweetheart, and just as she passed over the "death traps" to pull the wire and explode the machines.

FROM PANAMA.

English Marines to be Landed—Airpurs Refuses to Evacuate—Attempt to Blow Up the American Barracks.

PANAMA, April 22. The English are to land 100 men and 700 Colombian troops are to arrive within 24 hours. A meeting of consuls has been held to get Airpurs to evacuate, which he has refused to do. This has caused great anxiety. An attempt was made to blow up the American barracks at San Pablo bridge with dynamite. The men concerned in it were arrested.

Fort Pitt Attacked and Abandoned.

Several Killed on Both Sides.

The Garrison Attempt to Escape in a Boat but their Fate Unknown.

WINNIPEG, April 22. An Indian who arrived at Glenboro yesterday and who left Fort Pitt a week ago, gives an account of the capture of the fort and the fight between the Indians and police which he says, surrounded Fort Pitt two weeks ago and tried to burn the fort in which the police and a few residents were intrenched. The police fired upon them from loopholes in the fort. This infuriated the redskins who tore down the palisades and fired upon the fort in return, with what result they could not tell. Four Indians had been killed by bullets from the police and as there appeared little prospect of capturing the fort the Indians retired determined upon vengeance. During the following night when all was quiet they surrounded the fort and creeping stealthily up to it suddenly burst open the doors and rushed in.

The fort was found to be empty but just then several members of the band ran up and told them that the police and inhabitants had embarked on the post boat which is always kept at the fort. The Indians then ran down to the river and at once attacked the police who fought well. A number of them were killed but the Indians could not say how many. The rest escaped in the boat and started down river but the Indians feels sure they must all have been killed, as the band pursued them along the river bank, firing at them at every opportunity. The police were unable to return the fire as their ammunition had given out. The Indian further stated that in the fight on the river bank eight Indians were killed and four wounded.

CONNECTICUT

Inquest on the Bodies of the Johnson Family—Strong Evidences of Johnson's Insanity.

GREENWICH, April 22. Coroner Holt, of Bridgeport, began an inquest this morning in regard to the victims of the murder in the Johnson family yesterday. Rev. J. G. Johnson, a Congregational minister of Rutland, Vt., uncle of Johnson, the young man who shot his mother and sister and killed himself, testified that there was no hereditary insanity in the family.

For the last six weeks the young man appeared peculiar. Witness could not account for insanity except by excessive devotion to office duties, which caused him to write and work at night and caused a strain on his mind. When asked as to the truth of reports that the young man had been mentally disturbed on the subject of religion, witness said he thought any disturbance of that kind as evinced by peculiar conversations on the subject was the result of insanity rather than its cause. Witness produced a letter, written in pencil, which was found in the pocket of Burdett Johnson after his death.

Parts of the letter were read, as follows: "If I succeed in accomplishing what I think must be done a word or two of explanation will probably be received with interest. I think I am saving my mother and sister from an unhappier fate. If there is a just and generous God these two will go to the happiness which they deserve. If there is no God then they will simply find rest." At the close of the letter Johnson wrote: "I am conscious of the enormity of what I have done and intend to do, but at the same time I have an assumption that I have become insane. Why did not some one recognize my weakness, my need of help, and help me while there was time? But to be fair I suppose I should say, why did I not help myself?"

Intermediate parts of the letter were filled with expressions of tender affection towards his father, mother and sister, mingled with self accusation of all sorts of faults which his friends say existed only in his imagination.

Having completed the hearing, Coroner Holt returned to Bridgeport where he will file his report with the County Clerk to-morrow. There is a report that Johnson showed signs of a disordered mind Monday evening. It is said that he showed to some workmen three bottles, which he declared contained poisons, and asked what he should do with them. Thinking he was in jest they told him to bury them and it is alleged that he acted on their advice.

The bill establishing a Bureau of Labor Statistics passed both Houses, but has been reconsidered to change the term of Commissioner to two years instead of four, and will be passed to-morrow as amended.

Death of the Oldest Congregational Clergyman

NEWBURYPORT, April 22. Rev. Leonard Withington, D. D., the oldest Congregational clergyman in the United States, died at his home in Newbury this noon. He was born in Dorchester, Aug. 9th, 1789. He entered Yale College in 1810 where he maintained very high rank as a writer. He was considered the first in the college. He graduated in 1814 and at the time of his death was the oldest surviving graduate of the college, Andover Theological Seminary. He completed his education and was unprofessed to preach in 1816 by the Boston Union Association.

Being strongly opposed to college titles his own Alma Mater did not confer the usual honor but in 1850 Bowdoin made him a Doctor of Divinity by which he was generally known, but his own people invariably spoke of him as Mr. Withington. He was a thorough Greek and Latin scholar and was well versed in Hebrew. He was the author of two books, "The Puritan," and "Solomon's Songs," a noted work among theologians. From his boyhood he had been a contributor to various reviews and periodicals, in which articles from him appeared after he was eighty years old. In the early days of the Lyceum he was a frequent and popular lecturer.

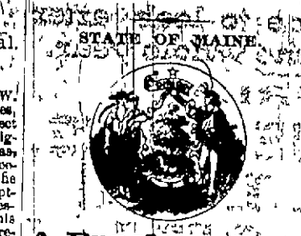
AN UNCOUNTED BLESSING.

About thirty years ago, a prominent physician by the name of Dr. William Hall discovered, or produced after long experimental research, a remedy for diseases of the throat, chest and lungs, which was of such wonderful efficacy that it soon gained a wide reputation in this country. The name of the medicine is DR. W. HALL'S BALSAM FOR THE LUNGS, and may be safely relied on as a speedy and positive cure for coughs, colds, &c. np21 eod&w2w

The enervation and lassitude of spring-time are but indications of the sluggish action of the blood, overloaded with carbonates accumulated by the use of heating food in winter. This condition may be remedied by the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, the best blood purifier known. np23 TTSTuSw

As a superb hair dressing and promoter of Ayer's Hair Vigor is universally commended. It eradicates scurf and dandruff, cures all eruptions and itchings of the scalp, prevents the renewed growth of the hair, and lastly restores its fading or faded color. np23 TTSTuSw



A Proclamation.

BY THE GOVERNOR.

The faith of our ancestors in the power of prayer to Almighty God and a realization of entire dependence upon His mercy, led them early to set apart a day of public fasting, humiliation and prayer, which has become an honored usage, and when accompanied by a humble and sincere belief that He is one who heareth prayer, is profitable in its continuance.

I therefore, by advice and consent of the Executive Council, appoint

THURSDAY, the 23d day of April Next, to be observed by the people of this State for the pious purpose, and I do urge that it be kept in the private home and public sanctuary as become a christian people who have been grateful recipients of so many varied blessings. Let us continue to implore the favor of God the forgiveness of sins the general prosperity of our state and country, and the triumph of a correct faith by good works throughout the world. The Lord taketh pleasure in them that fear Him in those that hope for His mercy.

Given at the Council Chamber at Augusta this twenty fifth day of March in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and eighty five and of the Independence of the United States of America the one hundred and ninth.

THE TWENTY FOUR HOUR RACE.

Completion of the First Twelve Hours of the Race—Positions of the Men in the Walking Contest.

The twenty four hour walking race began in Nottingham Hall yesterday with a small attendance. The track was in very good condition, and all the incidental arrangements were well handled. At five o'clock eight men out of the thirteen entered came to the starting place for the word. Their names and numbers were as follows.

2, John A. Sullivan, Bangor; 3, William Hurd, Dexter; 4, F. Maddocks, Boston; 5, George W. Munroe, Bangor; 6, W. Snowden, Boston; 7, Louis N. Martin, Boston; 8, George Dunton, Bangor; 10, Sockis Nelson, Oldtown.

At the start Maddocks, Sullivan and Snowden sprang to the front and the former finished the first mile in 7 minutes and 30 seconds. Snowden was ahead at the end of the first hour having 11 miles and 2 laps placed to his credit. The three skated together during nearly the whole afternoon when all were on the track. Sullivan lost very much during the latter of the afternoon by not working hard enough, and Maddocks was off the track some time. During the evening Sullivan was dogged by Snowden, and Maddocks by Hurd. At times during the afternoon Snowden would make the graceful sports almost flying for a mile or two and then settle down into his strong, and persistent gait. He and Sullivan are the most graceful skaters, while Maddocks and Hurd are the hardest workers.

The crowd in the hall last night was not though not large was quite appreciative. Each man had his favorite but all felt that it was then nobody's race. The question seemed to be as to which man would wake up the best this morning. The following was the score at the close last evening.

	Miles	Laps
Snowden,	110	2
Sullivan,	113	1
Hurd,	107	3
Maddocks,	103	3
Dunton	101	1
Nelson, (Indian)	91	3
Munroe,	8[illegible]	1
Martin (colored)	84

This is said to be the fastest time ever made on a twenty-one lap track. The start this morning will be at 10.30 and the contest promises such an interest yesterday that it is expected that it will be very largely attended to-day. One side of the gallery will be reserved for ladies and their escorts and half fares to the race will be given over the Maine Central from Old Town and Fitzwarth and intermediate stations. A full band of music will be present during the day and every firm will start this morning.

NEWSPAPER ARCHIV

Disgraceful Affair.

ASSAULT ON THE EDITOR OF THE BOOTHBAY REGISTER.

A dispatch from Boothbay, dated Saturday afternoon, says: B. T. Cox, editor of the Boothbay Register, was publicly cowhided in the street Saturday afternoon. The assailant was Mr. Lewis Best, who immediately went before a magistrate and was held in $500 for his appearance in court. An alleged slanderous article in Cox's paper was the cause.

Mr. Cox is a man over fifty years old, in feeble health.

Alluding to the above, a correspondent says:

"Mr. Cox has incurred the displeasure of the anti-temperance people of that vicinity to such an extent that he was horsewhipped, on Saturday noon, in the presence of twenty or more, to whom the matter was an open secret. The assault was most brutal and unprovoked, and condemned by all respectable persons. The cowardly assailant is under bonds to appear at the Wiscasset court, April 8th."

It is stated at Boothbay that the assailant's fine, if he is let off with a fine, will be paid by persons who guaranteed he should be held scot free in this matter. The people of Boothbay are a good deal aroused over the matter and Mr. Cox has gained friends by the adjustice. The agitator whose account Best is said to have administered to him has seen whipping. It is stated, was published several years ago. The Woman's Christian Temperance Union has been doing good work against the rumsellers of Boothbay, and the Register has supported them.—Lewiston Journal.

A Dry Goods Palace.

AN INTERESTING BOY OUT WEST.

[Milwaukee Sentinel.]

Timothy Appleton Chapman was born at Gilead, Me., May 24, 1824, and his boyhood days were passed on his father's farm near that place. He obtained a common school and academic education, and for a time engaged as a school teacher. At the age of twenty he bade farewell to his home, and with a few dollars in his possession, made his way to the great city of Boston. Here he sought and secured a position in a dry goods store as clerk, in which capacity he diligently applied himself for six years, at the end of which time he formed a copartnership with his brother, H. G. Chapman, and launched in the dry goods business for himself. This partnership continued until 1857, when Mr. Chapman disposed of his interest and came to Milwaukee where he engaged in the dry goods trade in company with Mr. Hassett, doing business on East Water street. Eight years later found Mr. Chapman the sole proprietor of a prosperous business, and he has since continued his trade without the assistance of a partner. In 1872, Mr. Chapman established himself on his present site, the southeast corner of Wisconsin and Milwaukee streets, where his business house gradually grew to the enormous proportions which it presented at the time of the fire last October. His present palace, which he lightly refers to as his little store, speaks for itself. It stands as a grand example of what honesty, industry and attention to life's occupations will accomplish.

On the night of October 8, 1884, the large store of Mr. Chapman was found to be in flames, and, despite the efforts of the entire fire department of the city, was reduced to ashes. Mr. Chapman witnessed the destruction of his property which had taken years of patient industry and [illegible] to the business in which he enjoyed a [illegible] of confidence, [illegible] of [illegible] he had [illegible] Mr. Chapman. From the start it was evident to him that the entire building would go, and in quiet corners he turned his attention to saving as much of the immense stock of goods which it was possible to do, resting the decision to the locality where their service would be the most effective. The next day found Mr. Chapman again on the ground early and apparently as fresh as long as ever, the warmth have been had so completely dried up in a [illegible] and crowded with patrons as usual. His mind was soon made up, and from first to last there was no hesitation in his course. He sought the architect and the time the ruins of his establishment were cold, plans for a new one were well under way.

As the building now stands, complete, it is rounded of architectural design and beauty, and is as nearly the perfect [illegible] as [illegible] structure of [illegible] with the exception of [illegible] windows. The lower stories are full outside details are of a term [illegible] of board for an elegant finish. Each floor is terminated by a handsome cornice, and the entire structure, producing a the skyline effect.

"Is it perfectly lovely?" was the universal feminine comment of the many thousands who attended the opening yesterday. The event was a good other day in the history of trade, not only in Milwaukee, but in the entire Northwest. No such event ever took place in any western city before. At early hours from carriages began to arrive, the Milwaukee street entrance filled with ladies and the press soon never stopped until evening. The Wisconsin street entrance was fairly alive with visitors during the entire day. Up to eleven o'clock the crowd had increased until there were fully 2,000 in the building, many had made their purchases, obtained the store and gone home. From that time on the crowd in the constantly larger. The afternoon trains were crowded with out-of-town people, who came to purchase goods and look at the palace dry goods house of the world. Among the cities represented were Racine, Kenosha, Oshkosh, Fond du Lac, Manitowoc, Sheboygan, Madison, La Crosse, Green Bay, Appleton, Waukesha, Portage, Janesville, Watertown and Milwaukee.

In the afternoon the throng assumed immense proportions, the Wisconsin street entrance and sidewalk teeming with people coming and going. At 6 the crowd was the largest and it was estimated that fully 7,000 people were in the building. The room on the second floor was so crowded that no one was allowed to go up on the elevator, and stairways for over thirty minutes, while those who wished to descend had to wait over an hour to do so. At the same time the lower floor was so closely packed that progress could scarcely be made. The gathering was so large that to a great extent trading was prevented, as people could not get near the counters and those that were there could not get away.

It is not the least exaggeration to say that hundreds of the 20,000 people visited and admired this magnificent structure with its artistic furnishings and finishings. Mr. Chapman was the constant recipient of congratulations and compliments of the [illegible] New York man said that if half the Sunday papers he thought Mr. Chapman had overstepped the mark in claiming the finest store in the world, he yesterday he confessed that half had not been told, and that the store was really the most elegant he had ever seen or heard of.

Mr. Chapman was also the recipient of several choice remembrances. One was a beautiful lamp about three feet high. It rested on a brace representing the leg of a cow. The shade was of gold china silk with a white lace fringe, the exterior of silk plush plaque. It was the gift of Thomas Mack, Esq., one of Boston's solid business men and a partner in the firm of H. H. Hovey & Co. Mr. Mack and Mr. Chapman were years ago, clerks for the above firm. His employes presented Mr. Chapman with a very pretty floral offering. It represented a globe over which was a crown. It was made of roses, hyacinths, geranium leaves and ferns. About the globe was worked with blue bells "Oct. 23 and April 6," the dates of the fire and opening. Another floral gift was a magnificent anchor about four feet high. It was made of calla lilies, hyacinths, roses, ferns and smilax, and was presented by a Milwaukee street florist. One feature that pleased the ladies was to find the stocks in those same places in which they were before the fire. It made them feel as though no fire had taken place.

An amusing incident is related at the expense of a Port Huron gentleman who no doubt will always remember the mistake. He went to the depot of the Port Huron and Northwestern Railway a few days ago to put his favorite daughter on the train and say "Good-by." Securing her a seat, he excused himself and stepped into Henry Cline's restaurant, and then returned to the window in the coach where he had left his daughter. During his absence the daughter left the seat to speak to a friend, and at the same time a prim old maid entered the car and took her place, and at the same time opened the window. Unaware of the great change that had been made in the car, the father put his face up to the window and said, "One more kiss, my pet." In another instant the point of a cotton umbrella was thrust out of the window, followed by the passionate interjection "Seat you gray headed wretch." He scuttled.
